

District 2 Spotlight

On Saturday, August 15th Councilwoman Barbara Shanklin joined mayor Abramson and others to cut the ribbon for the Newburg branch of the Louisville Free Public Library. The 8,000 square foot facility is environmentally and energy efficient. It is the first branch built in the library system since 1998. Residents and the Newburg Friends of the Library turned out to see a dream come true that was first thought of more than 40 years ago.

The new library features tough screen computers in more than 25 work stations. It also has natural lighting and other features to enhance the enjoyment of reading for young and old.

Councilman Hal Heiner (R-19) on the left and Councilman Glen Stuckel (R-17) on the right
Joined Councilwoman Shanklin for the Grand Opening